

Spencer Mott

Managing Director of Account Takeover Prevention

Spencer Mott is currently the Managing Director of Account Takeover Prevention for the Travel, Hospitality and Retail sectors at GSA Global. With an extensive background, including previous leadership roles such as CISO, CSO, and CIO, Spencer brings a deep expertise and strategic insight to the company.

Prior to joining GSA Global, Spencer retired as Group Chief Security Officer at Booking Holdings (NASDAQ:BKNG) and Booking.com. Booking Holdings is a global technology company with 25,000 employees and generating in excess of $19 billion in annual revenue. Booking Holdings brands operate in more than 200 countries providing of travel, hospitality, search, e-commerce and financial services to a billion consumers.

In his role, which he held for 4.5 years, Spencer was responsible for leading the company's global security, safety and fraud program, including cybersecurity, external fraud, information risk management, product software security, crisis management, customer and partner trust and safety, and corporate security. He led a team of nine Chief Information Security Officers and, at Booking.com over 550 security professionals and manages a program team responsible for cross-brand initiatives.

Prior to Booking Holdings, Spencer served as Senior Vice President and Global Chief Information Security Officer at McKesson (NYSE:MCK) from 2017 to 2019, and he rebuilt and relaunched the company's global cybersecurity program. From 2016 to 2017, he was Global Chief Information Officer at Amgen (NYSE:AMGN), wherein he was responsible for leading Amgen's global information systems organisation.

Between 2012 to 2016, he was Global Chief Information Security Officer and Vice President of Cybersecurity, Architecture, Risk, and Engineering at Amgen, and he took on additional responsibilities in 2015 for Amgen's IT architecture, engineering, program management, development operations, identitymanagement, and functions.

From 2011 to 2012, Spencer served as Vice President and Chief Information Security Officer at Electronic Arts (NASDAQ:EA). His previous roles at the company include Senior Director of Information Security and Risk Management from 2008 to 2011 and Director of International Intellectual Property and Information Technology Security from 2003 to 2008. Before that, from 2000 to 2003, he was Director of Anti-Piracy Operations in the United Kingdom for the Federation Against Copyright Theft, and between 1985 and 1999, he served as a detective in the serious organized crime croup for the New Scotland Yard Metropolitan Police. He previously served in the Royal Marines.

Spencer's passion is building high performing teams and capabilities, technology, innovation, organisational transformation and strategy. He loves tackling complex challenges and thrives in creative, collaborative environments. Spencer is British, married with four grown up children. He lives in Amsterdam. He lives in Amsterdam, Netherlands but is in the process of moving to Sweden which he regards as his home country.